DOCTORS REJECT HEALTH INSURANCE PLAN

Two Killed When Car Dives Off Highway

Ninety-foot Drop Drives Four Men Through Car Roof

John W. Bodner Killed Instantly and Eric Pitt Dies in Hospital Six Hours After Plunge Following Skid on Icy Malahat; Party From Duncan Had Attended the Basketball Game Here

P. Colliard, R. Jack Have Minor Injuries

One man was killed instantly, another succumbed to his injuries, and two others are in the St. Joseph's Hospital following a ninety-foot plunge of a car over the Malahat, sixteen miles from Victoria, yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock.

The dead men are: John W. Bodner, thirty-nine, a returned soldier, driver for the Cowichan Creamery, Duncan, who was killed instantly.

Eric Pitt, nineteen, Duncan, who died in hospital at 7:35 o'clock yesterday evening.

The injured are: Paul Colliard, twenty-seven, of Evans, Colliard Motors, Duncan.

Roy Jack, twenty-one, millwright at Hillcrest.

The four men, all basketball enthusiasts, were returning to their Duncan homes after staying in Victoria Saturday night. They came here to see the Dominions and the Harlem Globetrotters, play at the Victoria High School gymnasium.

Their car left the road when it skidded on the icy surface of the Malahat, about a quarter of a mile north of Stacey's Road. The car plunged head first over the embankment and partly turned over before it struck two trees which held it fast.

WENT THROUGH ROOF
The force of the impact when the machine was stopped after its ninety-foot plunge, catapulted the four men through the top of the car. Colliard was picked up twenty-five feet from the place where the car stopped.

Provincial Police who attended the accident said Bodner's body was badly mangled in the crash. He was the driver of the car. It is believed he was one of the first to go through the roof.

Pitt received a fracture of the skull and severe internal injuries, which caused his death six and a half hours after the crash.

The accident was witnessed by L. D. Briggs of Goldstream, who was walking along the Malahat at the time.

He told police he estimated the speed of the car at about twenty-five miles an hour.

SKIDDED ON TURN
As it was rounding an "S" turn, he said, it started to skid and became somewhat unmanageable.

Suddenly it plunged over the embankment.

Expect Port Strike To End Thursday

U.S. Pacific Coast Maritime Workers Voting Today on Peace Proposals and the Leaders Predict It Will Mean End of Ninety-five-day Tie-up

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Forty thousand United States Pacific Coast maritime strikers started balloting today on peace proposals which their leaders freely predict will end the long tie-up, possibly by Thursday.

Shipowners also accepting the strike as virtually settled, prepared

Premier Savage Planning Voyage

Canadian Press
Wellington, N.Z., Feb. 1.—Prime Minister Michael Savage will sail March 27 for England to represent New Zealand at the coronation.

He will subsequently attend the Imperial Conference, at which he will be assisted by Finance Minister Walter Nash and W. A. Jordan, New Zealand High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

LITTLE MORE SNOW COMING

Victoria Has Three Inches, but Nineteen and a Half Inches Fell at Portland

"The outlook is for a continuation of the present weather, with fresh to strong northeast winds, but only very little more snow," said W. A. Thorne, superintendent at the Meteorological Observatory, this morning.

Three inches of snow fell in the city over-night and Victorians looked out on a blanket of white this morning that transformed trees, streets and boulevards into a fairyland.

The minimum temperature overnight was 28 degrees. By noon today the thermometer had risen to 34.

Up-island the snow was much heavier and in country districts about Victoria it commenced to fall at dusk yesterday. Saanich and Sidney reported six inches this morning. Duncan had eight inches.

Driving over the Malahat Highway is extremely treacherous. The Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus up-island yesterday got about sixteen miles from Victoria when the driver deemed it unwise to continue. He returned to Victoria with his eighteen passengers. The southbound bus from Nanaimo was held at Duncan for the night.

At 5 o'clock this morning Portland reported a snowfall of nineteen and a half inches. Seattle had nearly a foot.

Seattle, Feb. 1.—While old-timers blushing recalled roses often bloom in January in the northwest, United States winter seized the area with a new grip that laid deep snow on the ground and sent thermometers sharply downward.

EDWARD J. REILLY HAS BREAKDOWN

Associated Press
New York, Feb. 1.—Edward J. Reilly, chief of defence counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnapping trial, was admitted Saturday to the Brooklyn State Hospital for the Insane under an emergency commitment. It was said today Reilly had suffered "a nervous breakdown" as a result of worry over domestic difficulties and the Hauptmann case.

Asbestos, Que., Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Operations at the Canadian Johns-Manville plant and mine were resumed here today following a week's shutdown due to a strike of 1,150 employees. The workmen were granted demands for a minimum wage of 33½ cents an hour.

Longshoremen, employers said, will get the first call to work as soon as ratification of peace terms by a membership majority of the seven striking unions is completed.

The joint strike committee, in ordering the referendum Saturday, recommended that tentative agreements be approved and points still in dispute be submitted to arbitration.

No returns will be announced, the strike committee said, until votes from all ports are forwarded here and

Mrs. Lenin Now Stated Arrested

Canadian Press From Havana
Paris, Feb. 1.—A report to the newspaper Paris-Sole from Riga, Latvia, today said Nadejda Krip-skaya, widow of Nicolai Lenin, had been arrested by the Soviet authorities. There were no details and there was no confirmation from any other source.

THIRTEEN AT MOSCOW SHOT

Group Condemned for Plotting Against Soviet Executed

Associated Press
Moscow, Feb. 1.—Thirteen convicted Trotskyists, condemned to die for treason and sabotage, were executed by a Soviet firing squad, the Tass (official Russian) news agency announced tonight.

In a brief statement, Tass said: "The sentence of the military collegium of the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R. was carried out February 1." The thirteen convicted defendants—on whom sentence was passed Saturday after a lengthy trial before three judges—were listed by their last names in the declaration.

Details of the executions were not given. The prisoners, convicted of treason and sabotage, had appealed despairingly to the presidium of the Communist executive committee, their last resort.

When the committee rejected their plea for clemency yesterday it became a virtual certainty they would be put to death before 3:15 a.m. tomorrow (5:15 this afternoon, P.S.T.).

Three Are Held For Kidnapping

G-men Arrest Trio for Trial in J. J. O'Connell Abduction at Albany, N.Y.

Associated Press
Washington, Feb. 1.—J. Edgar Hoover today said federal agents had arrested John Joseph O'Leary and Harold (Red) Crowley in connection with the kidnapping of John J. O'Connell Jr. at Albany, N.Y., in 1933.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said at a press conference that O'Leary was arrested in Brooklyn and Crowley in New York City.

Federal agents also were holding a third man, Francis Leo O'Leary, at Denver, Colo., in connection with the crime. Hoover said Francis O'Leary taken into custody January 20, had given agents information leading to the apprehension of John O'Leary, Francis's brother, and of Crowley.

O'Connell Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connell of Albany, was kidnapped July 7, 1933. He was released twenty-two days later in New York City after payment of $40,000.

UNDER SENTENCE NOW

Subsequent to his release, Manny Stewal, the O'Connell's "contact man," was arrested and charged with complicity in the kidnapping. Handwriting experts said he was the author of ransom demand notes.

Stewal was convicted of the charge on March 13, 1934, but successfully appealed his conviction. Two weeks ago he pleaded guilty to a blackmail charge and was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment.

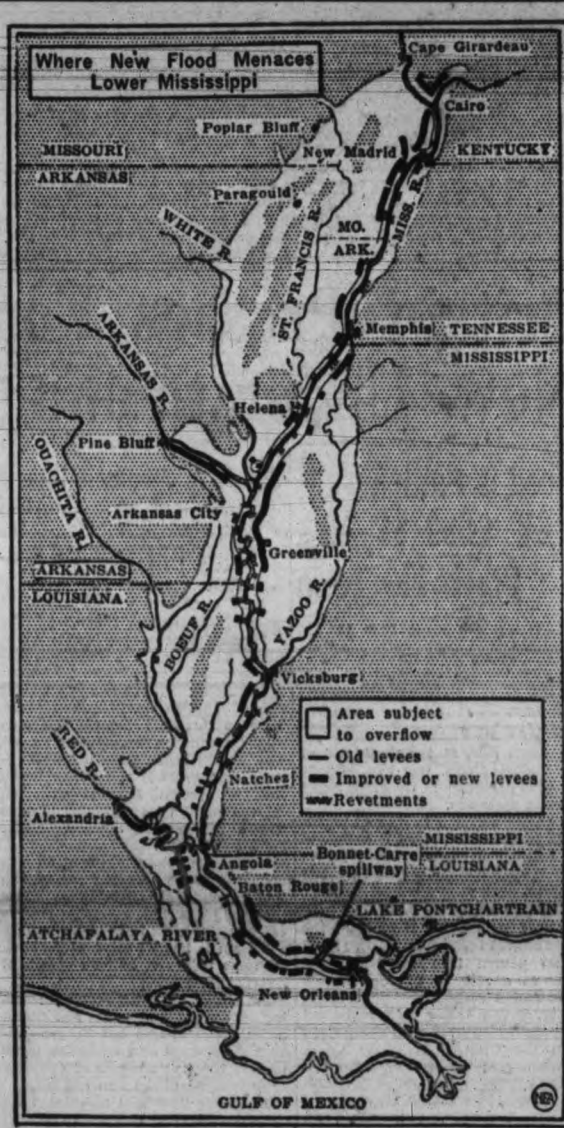

WORK RESUMED

Thousands Stand Guard at Dikes

With the flood waters of the Ohio River, estimated at 60,000,000,000 tons, pouring into the Mississippi at Cairo, Ill., today at a computed rate of 3,000,000 cubic feet a second, the hour of supreme test for the crews of men along the levees of the Mississippi all the way down to the Gulf of Mexico was approaching. Though the dike system was built to handle only 2,400,000 cubic feet a second, army engineers continued to voice hopes the system would hold under this, the greatest strain encountered since the new flow-off works were erected at various points at a total cost of $1,000,000,000 in the last nine years. The above map gives an impression of the levee system.

Flood Battled By 4,500 As All Others Flee Town

With Ohio's Tide Pouring Into Mississippi, Water Nears Top of Levee at Cairo, Ill., and One Way Out of City Remains Open for Crews

Associated Press
Cairo, Ill., Feb. 1.—Creeping yellow waters sloshed over the walls of Cairo, prime danger spot in the 1,300-mile battle against the river floods, as the army of defenders, 4,500 strong, awaited "zero hour" today behind a barrier of eight inches thick.

Lashed by wind and a swift current around the Ohio River's bend, waves broke over the lower ramparts of the sixty-foot concrete wall and drummed ominously against the frail three-foot superstructure crowning the main barrier.

AT RECORD HEIGHT
With the cresting Ohio at the all-time record height of 59.5 feet, six inches from the top of the concrete bulkhead, only a mud-boxed wall a foot and a half wide remained to stave off the threatened deluge.

All women and children were ordered to leave the city at once. It was the second evacuation. Some had drifted back, cheered by reports that no immediate danger impended.

Mounting waters warned of an early crisis. Throughout the freezing night, in the glare of floodlights, levee sentinels patrolled the walls looking for weak spots or leaks.

Proposals For Medical Service Not Suitable Is Decision of Profession

NO WORD FROM STRICKEN SHIP

U.S. Freighter Meanticut Sent SOS in Atlantic Yesterday; Ship Stood By

Associated Press
New York, Feb. 1.—Radio operators hung over their silent keys for hours today awaiting code signals that would disclose the fate of the 4,000-ton United States freighter Meanticut, which sent out an SOS late yesterday when her holds filled with water in heavy mid-Atlantic seas.

All radio sources reported the silence of the Atlantic had been unbroken since about 10 o'clock last night. The Dutch steamship Edam had wirelessed it had proceeded ninety miles from its position at the time the SOS was broadcast and was standing by.

Later messages believed from the United States steamship Waukegan stated it was conveying the stricken ship to the nearest port.

The last word from the Meanticut, a Lykes Brothers ship en route from New Orleans to Liverpool with a general cargo, crew of thirty-five men and no passengers, stated at 4 p.m. yesterday P.S.T., that "we have two lifeboats ready, but they are not in good condition." The Meanticut had reported earlier her number five hold was full of water and that one and two were filling, but the officers expected to keep her afloat until help arrived.

No Canadians In New Honors

King George Creates Three New Peers in Britain; New Knights

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Feb. 1.—First honors in the first honors list of the new reign go to Queen Elizabeth.

On Her Majesty, the King conferred the title of Dame Grand Cross of the Royal Victorian Order. Of the same order the Queen also is appointed grand mistress.

The Duke of Gloucester, the Duke of Kent, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Earl of Athlone, the Earl of Harewood and Louis Mountbatten, all members of the Royal Family, were appointed personal aides-de-camp to the King. The Duke of Gloucester was granted a commission as Air Vice-Marshal in the Royal Air Force.

NEW VISCOUNT

Baron Greenwood, a native of Whitby, Ont., raised to a viscountcy, heads the list of peers, baronets and knights appearing in the deferred New Year's honours made public yesterday. But he is the only Canadian-born peer in the new list and has been a resident of the United Kingdom since 1925.

As on the previous occasion, the birthday honors of King Edward VIII, no Canadian list is included. A number of knightships go to India.

Part Restoration of Railway Pay Urged

Majority Report of C.N.R.-C.P.R. Conciliation Board Suggests Immediate Action on Part of 10 Per Cent, With Gradual Return Later to Former Level

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 1.—Immediate restoration of part of the 10 per cent wage cut, with gradual return of the whole reduction as earnings improve, was reported today to be the recommendation of the majority report of the conciliation board dealing with the dispute between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways and 100,000 of their employees.

The majority report, understood to be that of Mr. Justice A. K. Maclean,

C.C.F. OPPOSES DEFENCE VOTE

National Council Calls on Party to Protest Appropriation Increase

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—A nation-wide effort to mobilize public opinion against the increased defence estimates already tabled in the House of Commons is being made by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

There is no indication of threats against Canada from abroad, the National Council of the party holds, and any danger from "subversive elements" within might better be eliminated by increasing expenditures on social services.

All provincial councils, affiliated organizations, members and sympathizers, accordingly, are being urged by the National Council to undertake a vigorous campaign against increased defence expenditures, for elimination of profits from munitions manufacture and for automatic conscription of finance and industry in the event of war.

MINISTER QUOTED

In a general resolution adopted yesterday after a day-long discussion, the council cited a statement by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, February 10, 1936, in which he declared his view that "there are two cardinal and guiding principles to be borne in mind when establishing a system of national defence:

"First, we must have the defence forces sufficient to control subversive elements from within and sufficient to repel attacks from without."

"To this statement the C.C.F. replies:

"The most effective form of national security is social security." (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Big Mock Battle At Singapore

Canadian Press From Hong Kong
Singapore, Straits Settlements, Feb. 1.—A land, air and naval "battle" for possession of this strategic island far-eastern base began at 8:40 a.m. today. Twenty-six warships and 100 planes launched the attack with two battalions of troops, native contingents and four airplane squadrons defending the base. The attacking naval units were commanded by Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Little, commander-in-chief of the British squadron in Chinese waters.

The doctors' objections to the scheme, summarized from the committee's report, are as follows:

1. No provision is made for medical or hospital services to indigents and persons on relief, the people who most need it.

2. No provision is made for those of limited means to whom sickness costs are a hardship; that is, old age and mothers' pensioners, domestic servants, casual and part-time laborers, and those receiving less than $10 a week.

3. Hospitalization as offered by the scheme is impossible due to lack of accommodation.

4. The available funds are inadequate to give reasonable remuneration for the amount of service asked of the doctors.

5. The panel system for doctors will lower the standard of medical practice.

ALTERNATIVE

In the statement, it was added that the profession was willing and ready to work with the commission and the government in devising a health insurance plan.

Fate of Government's Plan at Issue as Victoria and Vancouver Doctors Vote Against Payment System; Would Be Willing to Consider Partial Service Plan

Move Awaited By Commission

Victoria and Vancouver doctors, representing the bulk of the medical profession in British Columbia, have flatly rejected the Health Insurance Commission's proposals for medical service and payment of physicians, and today the immediate future of the health insurance scheme, scheduled to go into operation on March 1, was considerably in doubt.

At a meeting yesterday Vancouver doctors voted 191 to 4 to endorse the report of a special committee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons opposing the medical service plan as it was announced Saturday by the Health Insurance Commission. This action followed unanimous rejection of the scheme by Victoria doctors. A ballot has been sent out to doctors at other points in the province.

With negotiations at a standstill today, Allan Peebles, Health Insurance Commissioner, refused to make any comment except that: "We hoped the doctors would accept."

Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary and sponsor of the insurance act, was not in the city.

The doctors said they were willing to suggest a partial medical service plan as an alternative.

MAY BE DELAYED

While it was suggested in some quarters that operation of the scheme may be delayed as a result of today's developments, it was pointed out that the commission actually has two months to work out a solution with the doctors because benefits are not supposed to commence until March 26. Meanwhile the commission must also get agreements with hospitals and druggists for their payments under health insurance.

DOCTORS' STATEMENT

The action of the doctors in turning down the commission's medical service plan came after some months of negotiation. In a statement today Dr. Thomas McPherson, chairman of the doctors' committee, said their objections were not to the principle of health insurance, but simply to the arrangements proposed by the commission.

Five months ago, he said, the doctors told the commission they did not consider the plan feasible. Since then it had not been amended in any important degree.

OBJECTIONS

The doctors' objections to the scheme, summarized from the committee's report, are as follows:

1. No provision is made for medical or hospital services to indigents and persons on relief, the people who most need it.

2. No provision is made for those of limited means to whom sickness costs are a hardship; that is, old age and mothers' pensioners, domestic servants, casual and part-time laborers, and those receiving less than $10 a week.

3. Hospitalization as offered by the scheme is impossible due to lack of accommodation.

4. The available funds are inadequate to give reasonable remuneration for the amount of service asked of the doctors.

5. The panel system for doctors will lower the standard of medical practice.

QUESTIONS ON ARMY STAFF

J. F. Pouliot Asks in Commons How Many Have Seen Active Service

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—How many of the present personnel at National Defence Headquarters have seen active service? Jean Pouliot, Liberal Member of Parliament, has given notice of this question in the House of Commons.

Mr. Pouliot cites nineteen branches of the department, by name and asks how many officers and men serving in them are younger or older than thirty-seven years.

How many "have been in the line in an actual theatre of war?" he asks, adding "referring to the previous paragraph, how many in each branch have been stationed (1) farther than twenty miles behind the fighting line? (2) in England?"

The Temiscouata member also seeks information on the number of officers and men at defence headquarters who "did not leave Canada on active service overseas."

Burns Suffered By Hill Climber

North Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 1.—Andy Harper of Vancouver was treated for burns about the hands and face in the North Vancouver General Hospital early yesterday after a gasoline hiking lamp had exploded when he attempted to light it.

Harper was halfway up a mountain when the accident occurred. Flames from the lamp spread to his clothing and his hands were burned as he beat out the flames.

Companions assisted him down the mountainside to the hospital.

French See Little Disarmament Hope

Foreign Minister Delbos Declares Hitler's Reichstag Speech Fails to Make It Easy to End Arms Race

By ROBERT H. PARKER, JR.
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Chateauroux, France, Feb. 1.—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos expressed scant hope yesterday that Germany's attitude would make European disarmament an easy task, but reaffirmed France's determination to use all her conciliatory powers to maintain peace.

Dealing briefly with Chancellor Adolf Hitler's proclamation of Germany's willingness to co-operate with other powers on world problems, in his address to the Reichstag, Saturday, Mr. Delbos asserted:

"Doubtless he (Hitler) turned over a new leaf by declaring himself ready for loyal collaboration in the future. But international collaboration implies negotiations and accords which look very difficult if, as he affirms for Germany, on the matter of armaments—defensive, it is true—each is going to be the sole judge of what he must do."

FRENCH ACTIONS

He warned foreign powers against supposing that interior discord is so strong that France would not fight if she, or any country whose security she guaranteed (including Soviet Russia), were attacked.

In a rejoinder to Hitler's attack on Russia, M. Delbos insisted the Communist nation must not be excluded from "the international community." M. Delbos spoke in a pouring rain at the inauguration of a monument for war dead. A short time before, he symbolized goodwill toward Germany by placing a wreath on a monument for Germans killed at Chateauroux in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870.

Hitler yesterday pledged "loyal co-operation with other nations on world problems" but made clear he felt co-operation with Moscow was impossible.

Appeal in Italy Now For More Children

Rome, Feb. 1.—Failure of the Italian birthrate to respond to the government's bigger families campaign brought a denunciation of the "bourgeois classes" by the Popolo d'Italia yesterday.

The newspaper published statistics showing a diminishing birthrate coefficient between 1881 and 1936. In 1881 the coefficient was thirty-eight per square mile. This dropped to twenty-two per square mile in 1936. The Popolo attributed the decline to "bourgeois selfishness." "Shall we in the future have enough soldiers to defend the country?" the newspaper asked.

Dog Stays Beside Body of Its Master

Salmon, Idaho, Feb. 1.—A mongrel dog, faithful to a master stilled by death, stood guard beside the body a month.

The story was told today by George England, who yesterday found the body of Frank Chod, fifty-nine-year-old mountaineer, in his isolated cabin. England said the emaciated dog, barely alive, lay nearby.

French Author Dies in Paris

Paris, Feb. 1.—Pierre Valdagne, French dramatist, eighty-two, died yesterday.

M. Valdagne, a lifelong resident of Paris, began writing as a young man. Among his plays are "Allo! Allo!" "La Blague" and "L'Amour du Prochain." His novels include "La Confession de Nicaise," "Parentese Amoureuse," "Tour" and "Constance."

New B.N.A. Act Move Is Studied

Manchester Guardian Says British Parliament Ready to Give Over Entire Question to Canadian Parliament

Manchester, Eng., Feb. 1.—The Manchester Guardian, commenting on the Canadian "New Deal" judgments of the Privy Council, said yesterday the judgments "may well be a disappointment."

"They provide no short cut to constitutional reform," the Liberal daily said, "but in the longer view the courts cannot be expected to perform the vital function of Parliament, and in this particular case the Privy Council cannot do for the people of Canada what they must do for themselves."

"With the failure of (former Prime Minister) Bennett's impulsive frontal attack on Canada's constitution, the Liberal alternative offered by (Prime Minister) King will no doubt be re-examined."

He would transfer the British North America Act from Westminster to Ottawa and make it amendable by agreement between the Dominion provinces.

"An amendment to transfer the act to the Canadian Parliament..."

"Canadians now realize the Mother of Parliaments is ready to meet the wishes of the Canadian people as soon as they agree among themselves what should be done."

In London The Sunday Times said: "The Privy Council has just found itself in a position curiously like that of the United States Supreme Court."

After enumerating the five measures which the Privy Council found ultra vires, The Sunday Times said: "Mackenzie King has suggested the British North America Act should be amendable by the federal parliament with the concurrence of the provinces."

As soon as Ottawa and the provinces agree on the terms on which this might be arranged, the Parliament at Westminster will doubtless readily assent. The only thing which could paralyze the necessary amendment would be intransigence on the part of the provinces.

Adventurer's Estate Divided

Edmonton, Feb. 1.—An estate valued at $300,000 is divided in the will of the late Edward R. M. Geake, Police Coupe, B.C., farmer, prospector and retired commander in the British Navy, filed for probate here Saturday.

Bulk of the estate goes to his mother in England. On her death, one-half of the estate will go to his uncle, Bryan Mayo of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, or his heirs, one-quarter to his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Holmes, wife of Com. W. B. Holmes, formerly of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Geake and Major John C. Hartley, Vancouver engineer, were killed by bandits last November 6 near Compo, Mexico, while they were seeking a lost mine, alleged to contain rich ore.

6th DIVISIONAL R.C.A.S.C. BOTH UNITS

Both companies will parade at the Armories, Bay Street, Tuesday, February 2, 2000 hours. Dress, drill order. The following officers are posted to the under-mentioned companies:

No. 2 Composite Company—Major H. R. Allan, Officer Commanding; Captain R. H. Green, Lieut. A. Robertson, Lieut. J. P. S. Clark and 2nd Lieut. H. Scott.

Sixth Divisional Petrol Company—Captain E. Housley, Officer Commanding; 2nd Lieut. James Burridge, and 2nd Lieut. K. E. Morris.

As training has commenced in preparation for the annual inspection a full parade is necessary.

Hitler's Speech

REICHSFUEHRER HITLER'S ADDRESS to the Reichstag on Saturday was obviously intended more for home consumption rather than to convey anything of a startling character to the outside world. At this late date it matters very little that he should formally announce the removal of Germany's signature from that section of the Treaty of Versailles which placed the guilt of provoking the Great War on his country. Most of the work of the treaty makers of 1919 has been repudiated by Hitler and his Nazi regime.

Once again Der Fuehrer declared that Germany is ready to co-operate with other nations for peace and economic progress, particularly emphasizing his desire to be on friendly terms with France, but he struck a somewhat ominous note when he laid down the dictum that each nation must decide for itself what it requires in the form of armaments. This can only be taken to mean that Germany will continue to follow the rearming programme upon which she embarked months ago and pay little attention to what other nations think about it.

To a very great extent, of course, the peace of Europe depends upon the behaviour of Germany. Hitler says his country wants to be friendly with France; but France can not be blamed if she remains skeptical on the point. However, Der Fuehrer's subsequent actions will test the value of his peaceful protestations.

Just Too Bad

TRYING TO GET THE ORDINARY person to shed a tear over the sad fix of the man who has an income of $75,000 a year is as fruitless a task as trying to weave a rope of seafoam and sand.

The effort is made, just the same, in a recent issue of Harper's Magazine. An anonymous lady whose husband occupies that exalted salary bracket writes copiously to prove that life for the rich is far from a bed of roses. And she has the figures to prove it.

There are, she says, four people in the family—herself, her husband, their daughter, and her mother. They occupy a simple sixteen-room-and-four-bath house. And do they live riotously on their $75,000 per annum? They do not.

First of all, Uncle Sam takes away rather better than $10,000 in income tax. Real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage take another $4,800. Insurance of all kinds runs to $1,857 a year. To diversify relatives the family gives about $3,000 a year; to charities, $5,000; to sundry business clubs, $1,275. Eighteen hundred is charged off to depreciation. The lady of the house spends $2,790 for clothes; the husband, $410. Hubby's cigars, lunches, railroad fares, and incidentals eat up $2,700. The servants' wages run to $3,690 and the year's food bill is $2,811. Altogether, counting these expenses and various incidentals, it costs this family $56,000 to get through the year, leaving only a scant $19,000 to invest or put in the bank.

And does all this add up to a life of contentment? Take it from the lady who writes about it, it does not. "When hard times come, and the $75,000 shrinks to $40,000, it is almost impossible to economize; they are on everybody's 'touch' list, they are expected to keep up their clubs and their social activities, their fixed charges cannot be cut much, and if they fire the servants they simply create more unemployment. Altogether, says this lady, it is pretty much of a headache and anyone who thinks that $75,000 a year ends all one's troubles simply does not know what he is talking about.

Nevertheless, this is a cold and unfeeling world; and in view of the fact that the average Canadian has to feed, clothe, and house his family, provide for his old age, pay his taxes, and find whatever recreation he can on substantially less than this lady spends for her clothing in one year, it is doubtful if anybody is going to extend much sympathy to her.

For these upper-bracket folk, although they may have their troubles, at least free from that haunting, spectral fear that goes with a low income—that feeling of insecurity, that realization that a bad break in the luck may mean utter helplessness in the face of disaster. Free from that fear, they start life with a tremendous advantage over the rest of us. If, with that advantage, they cannot find happiness, it must be pretty largely their own fault.

Vanishing Bards

LONGFELLOW'S PICTURE OF "the murmuring pines and the hemlocks" standing "like Druids of old, with voices sad and prophetic," had more of literal truth in it than the poet perhaps suspected. Only, like the Druids of old, and the bearded bards of the same misty antiquity who were walking treasures of tradition, the forests around the Gulf of St. Lawrence are less concerned with prophecy of the future than with records of the past. Such tales they tell, at least to those who can learn their language.

One corner of the nature-guarded sages is Professor M. Victorin, botanist at the University of Montreal and director of the Botanical Garden of Montreal. Prof. Victorin's chosen terrain is not the old Acadia, now Nova Scotia, but the higher, rockier Gaspé Peninsula, well to the northwest, that juts between the river and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. On the half-bald rocky domes of the Gaspé's mountains, in the hard, shifting river gravels at their bases, from plants that are fast vanishing from the scene, he wins dramatic stories of the long age of the White Death, when the Pleistocene ice sheets held all the land except for a few mountaintops, on which these plants stood at bay like garrisons under seeming-endless siege. Now, crowding newcomers have possessed all the land except for these few disregarded, unvalued corners, where the relicts of the older race still remain, but dwindle year by year.

Fossil remains of plants found in St. Lawrence Valley soils tell that before the coming of the Ice Age the dominant vegetation was much like that of Pennsylvania or Ohio today—or of the recent yesterday before the white man's sweeping fire and axe. There were broad-leaved, kindly trees like beeches and maples, oaks and hickories.

Then came the ice, and for centuries of millennia its life-lacking masses choked all valleys. Only the highest peaks rose about the glacial sheet, standing up like the defiant tops above Greenland's ice-cap of today, which the Eskimos have put into the vocabulary of science as "nunataks." On these nunataks of Gaspé the fragments of the land's once-rich flora, the toughest and stubbornest, yet often amazingly beautiful species, hung on for the Pleistocene's million years of frozen desolation. Far to the south of them the advance guard of the ice retreated at times, when "interglacial periods" came, and the land revegetated—only to be frozen empty again; except for the unyielding garrisons of the nunataks.

At long last, 40,000 years ago, the ice went away, apparently for good. But the survivors on the nunataks did not find their situation improved as might be supposed. The more vigorous, ranker-growing, aggressive forest and shrubland plants from the south pressed forward, seized the best valley lands for themselves. So the plants that once held the nunataks are still largely confined to them now that they are mountain-tops again. The besieging forces are no longer white crags of ice but the dark-green spires of spruce trees, that even threaten to climb the last heights that the age-old glaciers could not conquer. The Gaspé's Race of Bards is ending.

Dangerous Age

A SURVEY OF TRAFFIC DEATHS during the first month of the year in an eastern city revealed some unexpected facts. It was discovered that none of the sixteen deaths had been caused by a drunken driver; that none had died as a result of excessive speed; and that none was a child.

However, it was significant that twelve of the sixteen unfortunates were pedestrians, and that the average age of these was sixty-one years. These results seem to emphasize that aged pedestrians are "marked for death" unless they use extra caution in crossing streets.

Whether it is defective vision, inability to judge automobile speeds, or the inclination to save steps by jaywalking that is responsible for this high mortality among the aged, is difficult to determine. Whatever the cause, nieces, nephews, sons and daughters may save some loved ones if they will assume the task of educating their elders to street dangers.

Approved High Flying

STREAKING THROUGH RARIFIED air at an average speed of nearly five and a half miles a minute is an extremely hazardous, almost fool-hardy, undertaking; but the amazing feat enabled young, wealthy Howard Hughes to break his own west-east air record across the continent by nearly two hours, and to set a new coast-to-coast record of seven and a half hours. It was not only an achievement of which he may well be proud; it is refreshing evidence that all young millionaires are not cut from the same pattern.

So often news items about such well-heeled youths have to do with the scion of wealth chasing chorines about his mansion, shouting insults at the Fascist in Italy, or the like. It is like a breath of fresh air to read about one devoting himself to the advancement of aviation. In other words, Hughes's is the type of high flying of which people approve.

Notes

Bird's nest soup now costs $20 a pound, which will probably be another reason why most Canadians have no yen for it.

A "cultural Olympics" is being launched in Philadelphia. Breaking training will probably consist of sitting up late with a modern novel.

"English locomotives will be named after birds." But it will be hard to convince the automobile wreck survivor at the railway crossing that he ran into a robin.

Port Alberni's West Coast Advocate is six years old and in celebration of the event appears with a new masthead on the front page and new type in parts of the paper. However, lest readers get the idea from this display that The Advocate has reached a state of affluence, Editor Hector Stewart hastens to disillusion them. "Affluence comes, if ever," he says, "only after years of hard work and steady perseverance and we're young enough to know that most of the hard work is still ahead. But progress we must if we are to keep in step with the progressive march of the cities and district we try to serve." With such ideas animating it, The Advocate cannot but continue as a highly serviceable institution to its community.

Loose Ends

We are in a jolly state here in Canada—And the world must enjoy the delicious spectacle—
—If it doesn't weep—and so the Mad Hatter's Tea Party goes on, but no one can get any toast or tea.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

STRANGE COUNTRY

THE OUTSIDE WORLD, if it hears of such things, must look at Canada these days with a rich amusement and a certain pity. If it were interested, the outside world would have seen in the last week, through the recent decisions of the Imperial Privy Council, that Canada has the most archaic, cumbersome and incredible arrangements of government existing in any civilized country.

It is revealed now that not only are we unable to do what we want to do in this country under our constitution, but we are unable to do anything about changing the constitution. The United States is bad enough, having to secure ratification of a constitutional change by the approval of the states. Here, with a constitution admitted by all sides to be intolerable, we are unable, at present anyway, to change it at all. This was virtually the admission made in Parliament last week by our leading statesmen.

There is no use blaming the Privy Council for doing its job according to the present rules and making the decisions implied by an absurd constitution, particularly when most of the decisions uphold the views of the present Canadian Government. There is no use blaming the British Parliament for refusal to change our constitution. The British North America Act, which is one of the British Parliament's statutes—a fact not known to a majority of Canadians. The real blame rests here in Canada.

If we were not impotent, if we were capable of agreeing on any change, on any new arrangement, the British Parliament would approve it overnight. It would cancel the B.N.A. Act, transfer it to the Canadian Parliament, move our constitution out of Britain and into Canada, where it properly belongs, without a moment's delay.

We are not in a position to ask it to do so because we can't agree on what we want. Alone among the nations of the world, we must leave our constitution in the control of another authority beyond our shores because we can't get together on any alternative. This is probably the most serious reflection that could be cast on the intelligence of any people.

PARISHES

THIS COUNTRY has now reached the point where it must decide whether it is going to be a nation or collection of squabbling parishes. If, as at present, one province can hold up any change in our outworn constitution, can render the Federal Parliament impotent to legislate on important matters, then we must permanently resign ourselves to chaos and futility. We had better revert to a Crown colony and let a competent lord from England come over here and run us.

Everybody agrees that something must be done. Every party minister in Canada issued an unctuous statement last week saying that something must be done. But let them get around a table to do it, and instantly all the old local jealousies bob up, provincial rights are waved aloft, everybody quails before the old bogey of centralization, and in the end nothing is done. In Ottawa fifteen months ago everything was arranged at a beautiful conference. Agreement was reached. We were to move our constitution from London to Ottawa and then some fellow in New Brunswick said he didn't like it, and the rest of the country, almost the entire population and area, the great dog wagged by the New Brunswick tail, went home and forgot all about the whole business.

ON THE SHOULDER

NO PART OF CANADA is stronger for parish rights than British Columbia. We have a chip on our shoulder all the time. It is true that we have reason to doubt the wisdom of a Canadian economy which last week saying that something must be done, but it is a somewhat nauseating spectacle to see British Columbia demanding just treatment from Confederation, insisting on its historic rights in one breath and then shouting in the other from the housetops that it is the most prosperous part of Canada, that it is leading the country in recovery and that its position is sound enough now to justify large new provincial loans.

Justice we demand and a place in the sun and, behold, our three prairie neighbors are close to insolvency, their people are starving, the life of peasantry, and we boast that the living standards of the entire country, except for a little piece of Ontario and urban Quebec, are far below ours.

What are we in British Columbia asking for? A new deal which will put all the provinces on their feet, a new deal which will be good for the country as a whole, a new deal to make a stronger Canada, a new deal which may cost us some money? No, we are going to insist on our historic rights under the Confederation pact whatever that does to the rest of Canada.

We are more prosperous than the other parts of Canada here in British Columbia because of our vast natural resources, certainly not because of our superior intelligence in using them for heaven knows, we have been insane enough in that matter. We feel that these natural resources are ours as British Columbians. Canadians east of the Rockies have no claim to them. The prairie provinces have no right to enjoy the prosperity we derive from them, unless they can sell us a little wheat (but no cattle, if you please, because that would interfere with our own beef ranchers). These resources are British Columbia property and we are the only British Columbians.

TEA PARTY

THE EAST has a way to subdue us, however, bring us into line. It arranges tariffs which make us pay through the nose. The factories are ours, not British Columbia's, says Ontario, and elaps on a higher automobile tariff. Let the British Columbians sell their minerals, their timber, their fish in cheap world markets, and be as prosperous as they like, says Ontario, but we will take it from them in the price of their manufactured goods.

So the merry war goes on, and no one is going to surrender a single constitutional point lest it may mean surrendering a few dollars later on. In Canada we remain citizens of nine parishes, not of one country.

It reminds you of a Mad Hatter's tea party. "We would have some buttered toast and tea," said the March Hare, "but the Hatter controls the toast under the constitution and the Dormouse controls the butter, so we can't butter the toast and, besides, I have the sole right to pour the tea, but I am forbidden by statute to permit any to escape from the teapot. We have been sitting here for years and years, but we haven't had any toast and yet, and I confess that we are getting very hungry. We shall probably starve to death, but the Mad Hatter says it is much more important for us to protect our individual rights than to eat, and the Mad Hatter is the wisest man in the country."

There was a time when girls who painted their lips red could be counted on to do the same to the town.

Letters to the Editor

A SCOT RECALLS FACTS FOR "CANADIAN"

To the Editor:—"Canadian" and his brother specialists in the art of imprecation may recall the days when Canadian agents traversed the length and breadth of the British Isles urging people to emigrate to Canada—especially people with money to lose.

Personally, I have nothing against Americans quite the contrary, in fact. But the type of Canadian who cultivates American ways in slavish, parrot-like fashion, who is seemingly devoid of originality, and is overwhelmed with an unconquerable hatred for the race from which most of our people have sprung, is to be pitied rather than rebuked.

To prevent misapprehension, let me say that I am not English. I am a Scot.

FOR FAIRFIELD ORGAN FUND

To the Editor:—May I express on behalf of the members of the Fairfield United Church organ fund committee our sincere thanks to those who contributed so generously to our fund by voluntary donations.

There may be those who wish to help in this cause, but who were unable to avail themselves of the opportunity. To them may we say that any subscription will be gratefully received, and that cheques or cash donations may be left with the chairman, L. Abbott, 121 Moss Street, or that arrangements can be made to pick up the donation by telephoning Garden 6649.

LAWRENCE ABBOTT,
Chairman, Fairfield United Church Organ Fund.

TO NURSE ANNIE MOORE

To the Editor:—(An Expression).
"This many years now, since you travelled far
From your own dear native land,
To serve and help in suffering,
With your kind, ungrudging hands,
Your life was lived for others.
In thought, and word, and deed;
When often of late you were weary,
And tired, by another's need."

Eight long years you have served so well,
The dear soul you inspired so much;
Now she is left, and you have gone,
But 'tis only a short farewell.

The rest you need you have gained at last,
For of love and strength you gave;
But your English heart and spirit
Will still live among those you loved.
M. K. BENTHAM,
Kingston Street.

CORRECTING A MISUNDER-STANDING
To the Editor:—Your book page carried a paragraph which quoted from what appeared to be a recent letter of mine, written in the "Solartium" while undergoing treatment. To correct misunderstanding which have arisen, I should explain that this letter was written two years ago.

AUDREY ALEXANDRA BROWN,
Kingston Street.

NOT HAVING ANY
To the Editor:—One of the British-Israelites in a letter offers me "enlightenment." But the British-Israelites cannot give me any enlightenment because they need enlightenment themselves about things they know nothing about.

HAROLD HESKIN,
617 Yates Street.

WRITTEN AT THE TIME
To the Editor:—As my friends are wondering why I should write about the late King's abdication so long after the event, I should be very much obliged if you would publish this note in your columns explaining that the letter which appeared over my signature recently was written the day after the abdication.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When a girl is dining with a man in a public place, should she give her order direct to the waiter?

A. No; she should tell her escort what she wishes and let him give the order to the waiter.

Q. Is one obligated to return a stranger's first call, even if not desirous of continuing the acquaintance?

A. Yes; and this first call should be made within ten days.

Q. If a wife dislikes her husband's guests, or vice versa, is the wife or husband justified in making this dislike apparent?

A. Never. A person man or woman, who fails to show hospitality in the home, is ill bred. Some authorities maintain that this is one of the leading causes of divorce.

Legion Branch Holds Banquet

First Annual Dinner Staged by Public Service Branch With Many Present

Public Service Branch No. 127, Canadian Legion, held its first annual dinner in Spencer's dining-room on Saturday night, with more than 100 members taking part. The objects of the new branch were explained to the gathering by P. D. Mulholland, its president. Public Service Branch, he said, was made up of men who had exchanged machine guns for fountain pens and adding machines, and whose business was public administration. In this field they hoped to promote the same group spirit and co-operation as had been seen overseas.

At the beginning of the dinner the members stood in silent tribute to their fallen comrades and a small white cenotaph was unveiled in the corner of the dining-room. Toasts during the dinner were as follows: "The Province of British Columbia," proposed by Lieutenant-Colonel Eric E. Fepler, responded to by Hon. Gordon M. Sloan, K.C.; Attorney-General; "The Canadian Legion," proposed by E. W. Griffith, responded to by Lieutenant-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G.; "The Civil Service," proposed by Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, responded to by P. de N. Walker, deputy provincial secretary, and "Our Guests," proposed by Major J. C. MacDonald, M.C., responded to by Brigadier D. J. MacDonald, D.O.C., Military District No. 11. Features of the entertainment programme were songs by Alvo Wetherall, Colonel W. S. Little and Dr. Brown, with Cecil Heston at the piano. Mr. Brown also played several banjo selections. Community singing was led by George R. Ford and Archibald Watt. "Vimy Interlude," a sketch representing the dream of a returned soldier in which he saw a world completely at peace, was staged by J. C.

Cleer, W. T. Bracken, Arthur Kerr and E. Burn. A small replica of the Vimy Memorial, illuminated with a soft blue light, was the background for the scene. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the dinner was made up of Mr. Mulholland, W. Griffiths, W. A. McClean, J. T. Clark, W. R. Tait, J. C. Cleer, R. W. Freeman and A. Q. Gordon.

Hatcher, next for duty, Acting-Sgt. A. Henry. All units of the brigade will parade at the Armories on Tuesday, February 2, under their respective battery commanders. Fall in at 19.55 hours. Dress, drill order. The officer commanding will inspect the 12th Heavy Battery, R.C.A. at 20.30 hours. Promotions—To be sergeants: Lance-sergt. H. N. A. Hatcher, L-Bdr. E. G. Scudat, L-Bdr. F. R. Waring, all of 56th Heavy Battery. To be lance-sergeant, L-Bdr. D. Paterson, 56th Heavy Battery. To be signal sergeants, L-Bdr. J. A. Simmons, 56th Heavy Battery, Bdr. I. M. S. Brown, 56th Heavy Battery. To be bombardiers, Gnr. R. M. Hemmingsen, Gnr. G. T. McIndoe, L-Bdr. S. F. Ireland, all of 56th Heavy Battery, L-Bdr. F.

D. Nelson, 56th Heavy Battery; Gnr. Fred Gale, 2nd A.A. To be lance-bombardiers: Gnr. G. Haslam, Gnr. A. E. Haines, Gnr. L. F. Walters, all of 56th Heavy Battery; Gnr. R. H. Jones, Gnr. E. V. Jones, Gnr. A. F. Jones, all of 2nd A.A. Appointments: To be acting-B.Q. M.S. Lance-Sgt. J. E. Chipper, 56th Heavy Battery, R.C.A. To be acting-bombardiers, Gnr. F. C. Wight and Gnr. R. M. Wight, 2nd A.A. Battery, B.Q.A. This will be the first of a series of weekly lectures by G. Winkler, the president of the society.

Year's Course in Study of Geology

The Victoria Geological Society will commence this year's course of studies in historical geology at a meeting to be held in the Boys' Central School on Wednesday evening starting at 8 o'clock.

Yesterday, she had lived under six British sovereigns, and would have marked her 101st birthday February 16. She was a native of Yorkshire, England, and resided as a girl in Hamilton.

At a business meeting of the society held last week, all of last year's officers were re-elected as follows: Honorary president, Rev. Connell; president, G. Winkler; vice-president, A. H. Morrison; secretary-treasurer, S. Chapman; members of the executive, J. Durrant and W. G. H. Pirth. A motion was adopted, calling for the holding of a number of field trips during the coming season.

All those interested in geology are invited to attend the meeting on Wednesday night. A feature of these forthcoming meetings will be the identification of any rock or mineral samples brought in by those who attend. America's first horse breeding society was formed in Louisville, Ky., in 1891.

METROPOLITAN Y. P. S.
The Metropolitan Young People's Society held its regular meeting with Tom Wilson as chairman. The departmental services were conducted by Mel Vout, assisted by Audrey Blair. The main programme for the evening was in the form of a music concert featuring a list of Victoria's talented artists. John Bray opened the night's entertainment with a vocal solo. Dorothy Bishop favored the society with a piano solo; the Allan-ale sisters contributed two songs while they played the ukelele and the Spanish guitar, and Irene Roskelly gave two dramatic recitations.

A period of enjoyable community singing followed with Art Perry at the piano. Jack White rendered a vocal solo. A skilful demonstration of the art of yo-yo playing was given by Harvey Lowe, prominent young Chinese artist.

During the business period it was announced that the drama group was well under way and all members interested are invited to take an active part. Group meetings were held and arrangements made for the next meeting which will be a mock parliament.

MEETING DEFERRED

Linen Needed At the Jubilee

The crowded condition of the Royal Jubilee Hospital during the past few weeks gives point to the urgent call issued by the Women's Auxiliary for a superabundant donation at the annual linen shower on Thursday, February 4, at the Nurses' Home. There is a veritable SOS call. Dozens of new beds have been occupied with the consequent need of linen and all sorts of nursing supplies. In fact, every room in the hospital is reported in use, including the emergency ward. Even two of the sun rooms have been impressed into service for the immediate benefit of the sick.

Housekeepers will appreciate the additional demand this has made upon the linen closet. The special situation has put a great strain upon the resources which the Women's Auxiliary endeavors to keep well supplied.

Particularly needed at this time are dish towels, bath towels, face towels, tea cloths and pillow slips.

The linen shower, which opens at 3 p.m., will be marked by the usual social features, with a musical programme and refreshments.

Veterans' W.A.—The Army and Navy Veterans' Ladies' Aid Society held a general meeting in the club's auditorium recently. Nominations of officers for 1937 took place. The election will be held at the next meeting. The card party scheduled for tomorrow is postponed to Tuesday, February 9, owing to weather conditions.

Today stoves are hot. "Jet" cleans them safely; all stores.

Gives Picture Of French Life

M. Pierre Auge in Address to L'Alliance Group

The daily life of the people of France's Mediterranean provinces, Provence and Languedoc, was brought vividly before members of L'Alliance Francaise and their guests on Saturday night in a lecture delivered at Victoria College by Pierre Auge, French consul-general in Vancouver. Calling his address "Beautiful Houses and Good People of France," M. Auge gave a word picture of the customs, habits, and background on the district in which he was born.

He told of the architecture of southern France, directly inherited from Rome, with the round Roman arch and the Roman portico still finding their place in the construction of the homes of towns and villages. He described walls three feet thick, roofs made of heavy rounded tiles set in cement on frames made from the rough-hewn trunks of trees, and kitchen fireplaces as large as small rooms.

The people who lived in these houses, the ordinary people of southern France, were marked by their comradeship, their love of words and their sense of humor.

M. Auge quoted verbal battles which he had heard, always ending in some dry joke and peals of laughter on the part of both antagonists and audience. There was even humor, he said, in the manner in which a Provencal would address his horse.

It was this power to see the joke even in the most tragic circumstances which allowed these people to go through all the difficulties of day-by-day existence with a grin.

The comradeship was to be seen especially in the relation between employer and employee. The boss always referred to his men as "the colleagues" in the old Roman style.

M. Auge drew comparisons between the southern French, the English and the French-Canadians for their outlook on life.

The consul ended his address with an appeal for Victorians to visit the international exhibition in Paris, opening next May with fifty-two nations taking part.

M. Auge was introduced by Mrs. Howard Archibald and thanked by Mrs. E. Sanderson-Mongin. Mme. Auge briefly thanked the meeting for the reception given to her husband and herself.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRIF

PARENTS SHOULD NOT EXPRESS DISLIKE FOR CHILDREN'S FOOD

We are wont to point with pride to the readiness with which our children imitate our gestures, pick up our words, phrases and moods. We should make use of this knowledge to promote our children's enjoyment of their meals. For if we acknowledge how smart they are at understanding us, without words, we must know that we communicate to them our subtlest shrewdness, or our disliking of the food, or our dislike of the appearance of the food, or our dislike of the food itself.

Of course, we excuse our own refusal of foods by saying that they wouldn't refuse if we really needed them. But we point out, children do: they are adding pounds and inches and should eat to provide nourishment for such an end. But what child eats because it is good for him? He eats because he is hungry, or enjoys the food—and it would seem to be his direct responsibility to further his enjoyment, and spur his appetite.

Yet when father calls soft puddings, "baby food," not even the baby will have aught to do with them. When mother prods her prunes delicately but avoids their consumption, none of this is lost on sharp-eyed sister, who likewise develops a sudden dislike for prunes. When foods, or their appearance or taste is held up to ridicule, the children's estimate of such foods receive an immediate check and they begin to dislike them, even though they may entirely forget the source of their distaste.

Likewise, children as well as adults enjoy a sort of intuition because of their failure to like the food more or less enjoy. "Oh, I never eat chocolate," says one, and we look at her in awe. Imagine not liking chocolate! Let the child find that his likes and dislikes win him a sort of importance and he will multiply them over night.

At every family table the attitude should be that of enjoyment of the food provided, not a dainty disgust for the necessity to eat. New foods should be viewed with interest and a desire to develop a liking for them. Such a spirit is bound to be communicated to children and enhance their appreciation for the privilege of having good food.

Our leaflet, "Diet for the Adolescent," may be had for a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldrif of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: Generous though faulty nutrition may injure child.

Royal Bride Learns to Ski

When Princess Juliana, above, went honeymooning to Krynica, Poland, with her husband, Prince Bernard de Lippe, and tried to learn to ski, she acquired two Polish words. They were "No pictures" and the heifers to the Dutch throne always said them when she sat down abruptly. Here the cameraman was too quick for the princess. She was just on the verge, so to speak.

T.B. Veterans Assisted By W.A.

Auxiliary Reviews Busy Year; Officers Re-elected

A year of much achievement in the interests of tuberculous ex-service men was recorded in the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the T.B. Veterans' Association held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. R. V. Campbell, Fort Street, on Thursday afternoon.

Alterations, including a new sun-room, had been completed to the T.V.A. clubroom on Blanshard Street, and had been paid for, the treasurer's report showed. Mrs. D. W. Burnett, the president, reviewed the year's activities, warmly thanking the officers and members for their valued co-operation. Mrs. W. H. Booth, the past president, also sent a message of congratulation and good wishes from her home at Alberni.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. D. W. Burnett; first vice-president, Mrs. J. G. Gibson; second vice-president, Mrs. J. G. Gibson; secretary, Mrs. R. V. Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. Standwick; committees, ways and means, Mesdames Standwick, Huell, Smirli, Laird, Adams, Ashworth and Muckle; telephone, Mrs. Cresline; house, Mesdames Huell, Clark, Fulthorpe and Gibson; sick, Mrs. Winters and Mrs. Burnett (Fairfield district); Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Fulthorpe (Willows and city); Mrs. Poursacres and Mrs. Cresline (Esquimalt).

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting in the T.V.A. clubrooms in January of next year. The members' birthday tea will be held on Wednesday, February 17, at the home of Mrs. Duncan, 94 Linden Avenue, at 3 p.m. There are five members whose birthdays fall close to St. Valentine's Day. A St. Patrick's tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Standwick, 1510 Elford Street.

A standing vote of sympathy was passed to Mrs. Kelly in the loss of her husband.

ST. ALBAN'S A.Y.P.A.

An enthusiastic number of young people were present at the initial meeting of St. Alban's A.Y.P.A., held in the hall last evening. Rev. F. Comley conducted prayers. On a report from the nominating committee, elections resulted as follows: President, Miss L. O. Trickett; vice-president, Miss Maud Deane-Freeman; secretary, Miss Joyce Clotworthy; treasurer, Mr. Bill Knowles. Committees will be formed at the next meeting which will be held on Friday, February 12. All young people will be heartily welcomed. Games concluded the evening.

STOP THAT COLD

A "common" cold can take hold quickly and develop seriously unless prompt and efficient measures are taken to stop it the first day.

To treat it properly you've got to realize that a cold is an internal infection requiring internal treatment that goes right to the source of the infection quickly and effectively.

This is the kind of action you obtain from GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. It does the four necessary things to treat a cold properly.

1. It opens the bowels gently but effectively.
2. It combats the cold germs and fever in the system.
3. It relieves the headache and "grippy" feeling.
4. It tones up the system and helps fortify against further attacks.

At the first sign of a cold go to your drugist. Buy a box of GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Make sure you get Grove's. Start taking the tablets two at a time. If taken promptly GROVE'S BROMO QUININE will usually stop a cold in 24 hours.

This is the kind of action you need to get out of GROVE'S BROMO QUININE, the standby of thousands in the treatment of colds for more than forty years.

DENTON-PARKER

A large number of friends of the bride and groom attended the service in the Church of Our Lord, Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock for the marriage of Ethel Florence, youngest daughter of Mrs. W. Parker, 888 Cloverdale Avenue, and the late Mr. Parker, and Mr. William Alfred Denton, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Denton, Reading, England.

Rev. A. de B. Owen performed the ceremony in a setting of white roses and carnations, and Mr. T. R. Myers presided at the organ. As the register was being signed, Mr. Jack O'Connor sang "Because."

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. E. J. Dixon, and wore a gown of heavy ivory silk and a "flying veil" held to her head with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of roses and white carnations. Attending her was her sister, Mrs. W. Buchanan, in amber satin frock and matching hat, who carried a bouquet of daffodils and carnations. Her niece, Helen Buchanan, was the flower girl, prettily dressed in a yellow tulle frock, carrying a basket of daffodils and a maidenhair fern. Mr. G. Smethurst acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. G. Wilkinson, Mr. N. Dixon and Mr. William Butts.

A largely attended reception was held at 745 Fort Street. The hall was prettily decorated in white and pink, the three-tier wedding cake occupying the place of honor. The bride's mother received in a navy blue georgette dress and black hat, assisted by Mrs. E. Elwell, sister of the groom, wearing a black dress with hat to match, both wearing corsage bouquets of carnations.

The bride and groom left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, and after a week's honeymoon will make their home in Victoria west. The bride traveled in a rose pink Bramble suit with black coat and hat, and a silver fox fur. Among the may gifts was a Chesterfield table from the former associates of the bride at P. W. Woolworth Ltd., and table linen from the manager and staff of the Banff Hot Springs Hotel, where the groom had been employed.

HEBDEEN-MARSHALL

At St. Barnabas Church on Saturday evening, Rev. N. E. Smith united in marriage Gaby Gladys, daughter of the late Mr. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Cedar Hill Road, and Mr. John Clarence Hebden, youngest son of the late Mr. Hebden and Mrs. Hebden, Mount Stephen Avenue. The ceremony took place in the presence of relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a smart figured black silk dress with a black astrakhan coat and small black hat with a short veil, and her corsage bouquet was of pink roses and carnations. She was attended by Mrs. L. A. Wooster, who wore a dress of Spanish tile crepe and a black fur-trimmed coat. Her close-fitting hat was of black capy cloth, trimmed with a smart little veil. A corsage bouquet of pink snapdragons completed her toilette. Mr. Gordon Hebden, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Marshall, who wore a gown of black lace and matching hat. A two-tier wedding cake centred the supper table and the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. L. A. Wooster. Mr. and Mrs. Hebden will make their home at 2628 Cedar Hill Road.

ONIONS-MCINTOSH

The marriage was quietly solemnized at Emmanuel Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock of Marguerite Eveline, elder daughter of Mrs. G. W. McIntosh, Wark Street, and of the late Mr. McIntosh, and Mr. Cyril Thornloe Onions, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Onions, Cariboo Street, Vancouver. Rev. A. S. Irvine, D.D., performed the ceremony, the wedding music being played by Miss W. Sowercroft.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Donald McIntosh, the attractive bride was dressed in powder blue lace, with a floor-length skirt flaring to a short train, and finished at the throat with a lover's knot of plum-colored chiffon velvet, and encircled at the waist with a sash of the same velvet tied in a bow in front. The short, fitted jacket had loose pointed sleeves and an Elizabethan collar. Her turban of blue net trimmed with matching tulle and a bow in front, and was worn beneath an all-over shoulder length veil threaded with silver, and she also wore silver slippers and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and pale pink carnations.

BRIDE'S ATTENDANT

The bride's sister, Miss Ruth McIntosh, her only attendant, wore a charming frock of wild rose-pink tulle, with a flared close-fitting bodice, and a full floor-length skirt, and finished with a quilted Peter Pan collar and quilted full puff sleeves, pique bonnet of matching tulle, and carried a bouquet of rose-pink carnations and snapdragons.

Mr. John Bennett, Vancouver, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Gerald Stoney, and the bride's brother, Mr. David McIntosh.

A small reception was held after the service at the home of the bride's mother, where baskets of daffodils were arranged in the drawing-room. Mrs. McIntosh, who wore a gown of vintage red lace, and a matching hat trimmed with a quail, was assisted in receiving the guests by the bridegroom's mother, dressed in brown silk and lace. They both wore corsage bouquets of talliesman roses and freesias.

The table was arranged with an ecru lace cloth, and centred with the wedding cake, which was surmounted with a silver vase of pale pink carnations, standing between vases of carnations and pink tapers in silver holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Onions left later in the afternoon for Seattle, en route by motor for California, where the honeymoon will be spent. For traveling, the bride chose a frock of wild mustard-green crepe, with a high cow neck, worn with a grey broadcloth coat, a black hat and veil and black accessories.

On their return, they will make their home on Irving Road.

Hart House Group For U.S. Concert

Canadian Press

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 1.—The manager of the Hart House String Quartette of Toronto announced today that the group had been invited by Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States, to give a recital in the legation at Washington on March 20. The quartette will be in the east at that time preparatory to sailing for a tour of Europe.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

By DENNIS WHEATLEY
Copyright, 1937, NEA Service Inc.; William Morrow & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, disappears from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CARLTON ROCKSAVAGE, off Miami, and is found in the cabin of the yacht, addressed to his secretary, NICHOLAS STODART, indicating that he had been kidnapped. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ARGUS SUDA, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard the yacht GOLDEN GULL, are Miss FERRIE ROCKSAVAGE, Rocksave's daughter, LADY WELTER, REGINALD JOCELYN, MRS. JOCELYN, Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law, the BISHOP OF BUDE, COUNT LUDWIG FOSODINI, and INOSUKE HAYASHI, Detective Officer KITTERING boards yacht on return to Miami for investigation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER II

MR. NICHOLAS STODART'S STATEMENT

Mr. Blane told me about a fortnight ago that his companies were in very serious difficulties but that his principal competitor, Mr. Carlton Rocksave, had invited him to a conference in the United States. Mr. Blane believed that Mr. Rocksave's companies were in almost as serious difficulties as his own, owing to the price cutting war, which had been going on between them for a considerable time.

Mr. Blane was the big man of the British soap combine and Mr. Rocksave the head of the rival group in America. Between them they could have had the virtual control of the whole soap market, but they have been trying to smash each other for months past and neither has succeeded to date. That cost both groups an immense amount of money, and told that Mr. Rocksave was on the bridge, went straight down to our suite with the chief steward. The cabin steward came along and asked if he could unpack, but Mr. Blane was so nervous that he would not allow the man inside his cabin. The yacht got under way just about then and Mr. Blane told me to change at once and, when I left him, he was starting to unpack his things himself.

Directly I had changed I returned to the drawing-room and found Mr. Blane had only unpacked a few things from his suitcase. He was sitting staring out of the porthole window. After a moment he sent me up to Mr. Rocksave with a message that he wished to get some cables off, and so would not appear before dinner, and told me at the same time that I was to get the latest market prices which had come in by radio and send them down to him.

That was at 7.30. I went straight up to the lounge, and, finding Mr. Rocksave there, introduced myself to him. He introduced me to Mrs. JOCELYN and Count FOSODINI, and gave me a drink. I took down the closing prices in which Mr. Blane was interested. These were sent down at 1.40 by the lounge steward, who returned to say that Mr. Blane's door was locked and that he could get no reply. I remarked that Mr. Blane would be changing and was probably in his bath; so the steward was instructed to slip the note under his cabin door.

Mrs. JOCELYN and Count FOSODINI left us just after that and I remained on end of himself rather than face the music.

STATEMENT OF SILAS RINGBOTTOM, CABIN STEWARD

Just before the ship got under way the chief steward called for me and said, "Ringbottom the two new ones that are allotted to Suite C have just come aboard. Get along at once and settle them in."

I went to C drawing-room and knocked on the door. The secretary opened it and I asked, "Shall I unpack sir?" and he replied, "No, that's all right. We're unpacking for ourselves." So I went back to my pantry.

I did one or two odd jobs, a bit of pressing and so on, and then I sat down to read for half an hour, while the guests were changing, until the dinner bugle sounded at 8.30. I then proceeded to my duty of tidying cabins. O suite, that is Mr. Blane's, being nearest, I meant to start on him but I found the door of the drawing-room locked, so I just unlocked the door with my master key and went straight into the room.

The first thing I saw was a note addressed "Nicholas Stodart Esq." and marked "urgent" in capital letters. I thought that a bit funny as if Mr. Blane had gone up to dinner why couldn't he have taken it up to Mr. Stodart himself? But it's not for me to question the why and wherefore of the guests, so I took it up to Mr. Stodart right away.

He just thanked me and tore it open. Then, as I was leaving the lounge to go below, he came hurrying after me and said, "I am afraid something's wrong, steward."

We went down to the late lamented's cabin together and had a quick look around. He wasn't in the suite and the drawing-room window was open. Mr. Stodart told me that he was afraid the poor gentleman had chucked himself overboard, then I spotted a bit of paper on the writing table and gave it to Mr. Stodart, saying, "What's this here?"

He gave it a glance and sent me up to get Mr. Rocksave immediately.

I did as I was bid and the owner sent me for the captain.

NICHOLAS STODART, FLASHED BY DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME. 8.1.37

an amalgamation between them would have meant salvation to them both, whereas, if they continued their rivalry, it was quite certain that one of them would go under.

Mr. Blane accepted Mr. Rocksave's invitation and we sailed for the United States in the Berengaria. During the voyage Mr. Blane was very depressed. The steady fall in the shares of his companies caused him grave anxiety and he told me repeatedly that if Argus Suda went below forty-five he would have very little chance of pulling off a deal with Rocksave except upon ruinous terms and that, if Argus Suda went below forty, there would be no chance of his pulling off a deal at all, as it would pay Rocksave better, in that case, to let him go under. The fact that the shares of the Rocksave companies were also falling, although in a lesser degree, did not appear to console him.

Mr. Blane's depression was so great at times that I had grave doubts as to his sanity. He seemed to think that Rocksave and his associates would stop at nothing to wreck him. He knew, of course, that his death would mean a complete slump in the Blane interests and, although he had never met Mr. Rocksave, he apparently regarded him as a man who might even go the length of engineering his death in order to smash the Blane companies.

He knew that his only hope of pulling his companies through was this conference on the Golden Gull, yet he seemed to think that by going on board he would be taking his life in his hands, and it was such statements as these which made me consider him to be off his mental balance at times.

We could have joined the yacht in New York, but Blane jibbed at the last moment from this fear that his life would be in jeopardy, but he would himself together a few hours later and I called Mr. Rocksave for him that we would fly down to join the yacht at Miami.

Just before 7 o'clock we came out to the yacht in a tender and, on being in the lounge talking to Mr. Rocksave. The Bishop of Bude came in and then Lady Welter. Mr. Rocksave remarked shortly after that it was ten past eight, so he must change at once or he would be late, and if he was late he would go in to dinner without him.

After he had left us Mr. Inosuke Hayashi came in, then Count Fosodini. At 8.30 Mrs. JOCELYN, having changed, returned to the lounge with her husband, Mr. Reggie JOCELYN, to whom she introduced me.

It was just after the dinner-bugle sounded that the cabin steward came up to the lounge and handed me the note that Mr. Blane had left for me.

Having read it I hurried below with the cabin steward. We found that Mr. Blane's suite was empty and the window of his drawing-room wide open, so it looked as though he had thrown himself out into the sea. It was then that the steward picked up a piece of paper from the writing table, which I recognized at once as the leaf from my pocketbook with the share quotations on it, and I saw the line of writing in Blane's hand containing his last message on the back of it. It read, "You see! Argus has gone under forty. So the game is up!" I sent the steward up to get Mr. Rocksave at once and, immediately I had told him what had occurred, he sent for the captain.

This business has been a great shock to me because, although I have not been in Mr. Blane's employ for very long, he always treated me decently and I had got to be very fond of him. I don't think there is the least doubt about it being a case of suicide. Big business people may use unscrupulous methods at times but it's stretching things a bit too far to suggest that they actually murder one another. I think Mr. Blane's fear for his life was brought on purely by an over-strained imagination, realizing that his last hope of saving his companies had disappeared, when the Argus Suda shares dropped below the forty level, he decided to make

England Sets Up Forty-two Run Lead in Test Cricket Match

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By FETE SALLAWAY

ORGANIZED as an emergency measure at a conference over a dinner table ten years ago and developed into one of the greatest touring clubs in the history of basketball, the few words that is the history of Abe Saperstein's Harlem Globe Trotters, who gave two rousing exhibitions here last week. For three hours on Saturday afternoon the writer talked basketball with this little chap Saperstein and believe me he is a walking encyclopedia when it comes to knowing basketball teams, players and big time sports in general. Working out of Chicago, Saperstein, a young fellow who has crammed a world of experience into his few years, is engaged in sports promotion. His two lines are basketball and baseball and strange as it may seem his associations are entirely with colored folk. He has built up a reputation in handling negro athletes that is known the length and breadth of the United States.

But getting back to the organization of the Globe Trotters. Here's how it all came about. Back in 1924-25-26 Abe was dashing over the basketball courts of the states in a member of the "Cleveland Brown Bombers," holders of the world professional championship. And although he is just a little fellow Saperstein played guard. (And he is still a mighty fine shot. I watched him drop in some sweet baskets at the High gym Friday night after the game.) The Cleveland club was declared too strong for the pro league in which it performed and the moguls decided to break it up. Saperstein was ordered to report to a team in Rochester but refused, and returned to Chicago. Being idle he was offered the job as coach of a negro team which folded up after the start of the second season. Abe again found himself out of a job along with two of his performers.

Desperate, Saperstein and his players got together and decided to go on the plan to organize a good colored squad and travel around the country. Additional players were secured from various sections of the middle west and the team started out. The tour was successful beyond their fondest dreams and at the end of the season it was decided to make the trip an annual affair and copyright the name. But how the club has come ahead since that night in mid-January 1927. The season's schedule now takes in about 170 games and in about three years the Globe Trotters will reach the 2,000 mark in exhibition engagements.

Questioned as to how he recruits his players Saperstein said: "The Globe Trotters now hold such a high reputation that it is a cinch for me to grab off the cream of colored players in the United States. Every colored boy playing basketball considers it the top to become a member of my team. It is just the same as a white boy playing major league baseball."

At the start of each season Saperstein sends out notice that training will open in Chicago on November 1. When his squad arrives Abe puts the boys through their paces, picks out the players he wants to keep and sends the remainder to his farm clubs. He operates three of the latter at Detroit, Cincinnati and Columbus. The training period lasts for ten days after which Saperstein starts off on the long tour that ends in April. In addition to acting as manager the Chicago Jew is coach and works out all the plays and clowning acts. If one of his players gets injured during the tour he just writes to one of his farm clubs for a replacement. Saperstein had twenty-one players turn out for training this season.

Saperstein's training rules on tour are simple. "I just tell my players to look after themselves," he said. "They are grown men and know that they have to play every day and as a result can't fool around. If they do, it shows up in their play and I then take the necessary disciplinary measures," he stated. In regard to their diet the manager makes only two demands. His players must take daily two yeast tablets and a dose of a beef, iron and wine tonic.

Asked to name the leading professional basketball clubs in North America today Saperstein selected five in the following order: 1. Philadelphia Hebrews; 2. New York Renaissance; 3. New York Celtics; 4. Indiana Kautskys; 5. Harlem Globe Trotters. The New York Renaissance are another colored team and the Globe Trotters will meet them in a series for the world colored championship. (Turn to Page 10, Col. 4)

Splendid Aussie Bowling Retards Visitors' Attack

Charles Barnett, Gloucestershire, Scores 129 to Lead Britishers

O'REILLY IN GREAT FORM

Adelaide Australia, Feb. 1.—England obtained a first innings' lead of forty-two runs in the fourth cricket test match against Australia today. The touring players were dismissed for 330 runs before the tea interval in the third day's play after their opponents' initial attempt had yielded 288. In their second turn at the wickets the Antipodeans had made sixty-three for one at the close of play.

After scoring 174 for two wickets Saturday, England's chances of establishing a big first innings margin appeared bright, but splendid bowling by the Aussies kept the score down. Charles Barnett, Gloucestershire opening batsman, registered his first century in test cricket, carrying his overnight score from 92 to 129. Leslie Ames was the only other Englishman to stand up successfully against the home team's attack. The Kent wicket-keeper batted vigorously for 52 runs, his hits including eight fours.

Going in a second time, the Australians lost J. H. Fingleton with 21 runs on the board. The New South Wales star was put out leg-before-wicket by Wally Hammond after scoring 12. W. A. Brown, Queensland, and Don Bradman, Aussie skipper, played together until the close. The former made 23 and his colleague 26.

FINE WEATHER
Twenty-nine thousand spectators, in warm sunny weather gave Barnett an ovation on his return to the pavilion. He lasted nearly six hours and hit one six and thirteen fours. L. O. B. Fleetwood-Smith, Victorian spin-bowler, finally dismissed him leg-before-wicket.

W. J. O'Reilly, New South Wales schoolboy, was the best of the Aussie bowlers, taking four wickets for 51. Fleetwood-Smith captured four for 129 and E. L. McCormick, another Victorian, two for 51. England started poorly. Maurice Leyland, Yorkshire, took his total to 45 when he was caught by Chipperfield in the slips off Fleetwood-Smith, the third wicket going down for 190 runs. R. E. S. Wyatt, Warwickshire captain, was caught by Fingleton off O'Reilly after scoring three.

DEFENSIVE TACTICS
The fields crowded around Barnett and Ames as the Englishmen adopted defensive tactics. Scoring slowed, but the pair played steadily. Barnett left with the score at 259. Joseph Hardstaff came in with Ames and the partnership yielded 40 runs while Ames was clean-bowled by McCormick in attempting to hit a " Yorker " to leg.

SEATTLE AND OAKLAND WIN

Defeat Portland and Vancouver, Respectively, in Coast Hockey Games

Portland, Feb. 1.—Seattle and Portland hockey officials cancelled their Pacific Coast League game scheduled here last night. The managers agreed heavy snow conditions would prevent spectators from attending.

The game will be played on a Sunday night later in the season. On Saturday night, Seattle defeated Portland 5 to 4 at Seattle, and Oakland took Vancouver into camp 2 to 1 on the former's home ice. Summaries follow:

SEATTLE-PORTLAND

Lazzeri-Jackson Receive Awards

New York, Feb. 1.—Two infielding warhorses of the pennant-winning New York baseball club, Anthony Michael Lazzeri, Yankees, and Travis Jackson, Giants, were selected yesterday as recipients of the annual player awards made by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association.

The scribes voted Lazzeri as "the player of the year" because of his great 1936 comeback. Jackson was chosen for the award recognizing "meritorious service in baseball over a long period."

THE BIG SEVEN

Harvey Jackson, replacing Charlie Conacher as Toronto's "big bomber," and American Dave Schryver garnered four and two points respectively to move into a tie for the National Hockey League scoring leadership during the week-end. They overhauled Larry Aurie of Detroit, who went pointless, and held a one-point margin with thirty points each. Jackson's goals against Maroons left him only one behind for the leadership in the department.

The leaders follow:

FAMILY NAME
Strange as it seems, the spelling of their family name by the initials of the first names of the Crozier children started entirely through chance. Until the first three children had been named, Clarence, Robert and Orlando, no thought of spelling out "Crozier" had entered the minds of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Crozier of Brenham, Texas.

HUMAN HORNS

Strange as it seems, every finger-nailed and toothed you possess is a true horn. If you happen to be suffering from corns on your feet you have that many more horns. Horns can be of two kinds, one a continued growth of bone such as on cattle, the other a hardness of the epidermic tissue. The latter form is the true horn. Fingernails, toenails, horses' hoofs, birds' beaks and corns all come under the "true horn" classification.

OUR MAIL BAG

BASKETBALL SITUATION

To the Sports Editor:—About this time each year an annual controversy takes place between the British Columbia branch of the Amateur Athletic Union and the British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association.

During the last few days a letter containing a list of five questions has been sent to every team manager in B.C. by the British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association. This is an endeavor by the officials of the B.C.A.A. to ascertain the desires of the individual basketball player, as after all, the player is the one affected.

These five questions are relative to the present relations with the B.C.A.A.U. Since these questions are rather complicated in their wording, it would seem advisable to have a meeting of all teams in Victoria and district to discuss and decide on them.

It is undoubtedly the duty of every team manager to mark these letters and forward them to the writer or to the president of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association.

While in the past our relations with the B.C.A.A.U. have not been of the best, it would be lamentable to sever our connections with the A.A.U. of Canada, unless, of course, the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association should decide to take such a step.

At the present time there is nothing that cannot be ironed out if a little common sense is used. It would seem that the present officials of the B.C.A.A.U. are not of the broadminded type so necessary in amateur officialdom today. It would also seem they have overstepped their authority in suspending officials of B.C.B.A. as these men were acting in what they believed to be the best interests of the individual basketball player.

Joe Gould, the Heavyweight Boxing Champion's Manager, announces He Has Signed for Bout With Joe Louis in Chicago Next June; Garden and Schmeling Not Worrying

New York, Feb. 1.—Convinced the world heavyweight championship is worth a million dollars, and that a title defense should net the champion at least half that much, Jim Braddock plans to scrap his agreement to meet Max Schmeling, so he can take on Joe Louis for $500,000.

The titleholder's manager, Joe Gould, expressing certainty a Louis-Braddock championship bout will draw a million-dollar gate and that Schmeling can attract no more than $200,000, announced yesterday he had accepted a half-million dollar offer for Braddock to tackle the Brown Bomber in Chicago's huge Soldiers' Field in June.

In so doing, he would toss aside the contract for a June 3 bout between Schmeling and Braddock in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl, and the Garden insists he "can't get away with it."

While Gould was explaining that the Louis fight offer came from Sheldon Clark, wealthy Chicago sportsman once associated with Tex Rickard in promoting the fight game's biggest all-time gate—the second Dempsey-Tunney clash—the Garden's promoter, Jimmy Johnston, advised all concerned last night to "pay no attention to Gould." Schmeling, too, was incredulous, and decided it was a "publicity stunt."

IS NOT WORRYING

"We have the champion signed to an ironclad contract," Johnston declared. "And nobody ever got out of a Garden contract. Gould can't go through with it."

The titleholder's pilot said he would go before the New York State Athletic Commission this week to ask return of the $5,000 cheque he posted as evidence of "good faith" in Braddock's intentions, at that time, to fight Schmeling on June 3.

"But whether the champion returns the cheque or not," Gould insisted, "we'll still go through with the fight in Chicago. My business is to make the most money I can for Braddock, and a Louis fight is the best bet."

"I'm not interested in what Madison Square Garden may do," he said in reply to a question. "That's up to them."

Schmeling has been designated as the number one challenger since he knocked out Louis last year. A few weeks ago Gould found it hard to re-sign a $300,000 offer for a twelve-round exhibition with Louis in Atlantic City.

Three Clubs Win Keen Battles By Single Counters

Detroit Increases Lead in N.H.L. American Division by Beating Boston

Jackson Is Tied For Scoring Lead

The rest of the hockey world may not be ready to agree that Toronto Maple Leafs have developed the season's outstanding front line, but Toronto critics are starting to compare the trio Harvey Jackson leads with the National League's outstanding combinations.

No one who saw Jackson and his two rookie aides—Sylvanus Apps and Gordon Drillon—flying against Montreal Maroons Saturday night will deny they have almost everything that makes for greatness.

The polished play they have developed in a few weeks together is remarkable when it is considered both Apps and Drillon were in amateur ranks last season and Jackson was bogged down in the worst slump of his career.

Today Jackson is tied with Sweeney Schriner, New York Americans, for scoring-point leadership of the league. He has thirty points, eight more than he scored all last season.

It was due almost entirely to the efforts of Jackson, Drillon and Apps that Leafs won 7 to 4 from Maroons. Jackson and Drillon each scored three goals and an assist, and Apps aided in three goals to give the trio a total of eleven points.

Tommy Gorman's team went on to Chicago to redeem themselves last night with a 2 to 1 victory over the Hawks.

Toronto had come within a point of Maroons, runners-up in the Canadian division but the Chicago win put the Montrealers three points up again. Every team in the Canadian section picked up a game. New York Americans defeating the Montreal-less Canadiens 4 to 0 in Montreal Saturday and losing 3 to 2 to the Bruins in overtime at New York last night.

In the American division Detroit Red Wings increased their lead in the first place over New York Rangers by seven points. They won 2 to 1 from Bruins in Boston last night.

In the Toronto contest, Leafs scored six goals before Maroons got near the score sheet.

Bruce Blincoe got one to break a jinx that has held him off the goal scoring lists all season. Earl Robinson, Jerry Shannon and Steve Evans scored, the others. Art Jackson, brother of Harvey, tallied the only leaf goal. Harvey and Drillon didn't get.

Brought up from New Haven to play one game, netminder, Alfie Moore starred in the American-Canadian contest at Montreal by shutting out the Habitués. Old Nels Stewar shared star honors with Moore, scoring two of the American goals. Stewart got the first goal and Joe Jerwa, recently obtained from Boston, passed to Schriner and Tommy Anderson for the others.

BLAKE WINS GAME

The New Yorkers led for two periods in last night's game, but couldn't withstand the terrific assault the Habitués staged in the third. Stewart and Art Chapman gave Ameteks an early lead, which Joe Blake cut down in the first and Jack McGill tied in the third. Blake won the game in overtime with his second goal.

All the action in the Maroon-Hawk game was crowded into the third period. There was no score until Jimmy Ward tallied for Maroons early in that session. Johnny Gottselig tied it up five minutes later, and Buddy Northcott won the game for the Montrealers with less than five minutes to play.

The Kilrea boys spelled defeat for Bruins in the Boston game. Art Ross's team got an early lead through Lorne Duguid's first period goal, but Wally Kilrea passed for brother Hec to tie it up in the second and scored the winning goal in the third.

HARLEM BOYS IN CLOSE WIN

Colored Cagers Given Tough Game by Dominos to Take Two Straight, 39 to 33

The dark cloud from Harlem that lay low over Victoria basketball circles for two days last week, lifted Saturday, leaving a decided impression on local fans. Before a packed house at the Victoria High School gym in their second and final game the dusky wizards of the hoop and ball put on a grand show in winning from the Dominos 39 to 33.

In all respects the second game was a bruising exhibition featured by close checking on the part of both teams and the super team work of the visiting squad. The dark-skinned ball-players treated the fans to a brand of game they had never seen before. Their passing, shooting and general floor work was a sight for sore basketball eyes and every crash customer came away well-satisfied.

The Harlemites swung into action right from the start uncorking surprise after surprise in the way of novel ball-handling and then combined these features into a perfect combination. Their clowning was better than a circus and their block plays had a polish that only comes with perfection.

FORD HIGH SCORER

As on the previous evening, Harry Russan, dynamic little forward of the Globe Trotters, turned in a great performance, while Bill Ford was high man with a scoring total of fourteen points.

Ted Strong, the man with the massive mits, gave the fans another exhibition of his trick ball-handling that had them in fits of laughter.

Only once during the game did the Dominos head the scoring and that was about ten minutes from the beginning of the second half when Bert Davies made the score read 31 to 30 for the Dominos when he converted from the foul strip.

About the middle of the second half the Harlemites turned on the pressure and treated the fans to a real exhibition of scientific basketball, interspersed with some neat ball-handling.

Art Chapman hit his stride for eleven points and was highest scorer for the locals having been held to only four the previous night.

At half-time Bunny Leavitt, free-throw champion, gave his neat exhibition of sinking them from the foul line.

MAROONS—CHICAGO

First period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Marker, Brydson, Blair.

Second period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Burke, Trotter.

Third period—1, Maroons, Ward, 1:05; 2, Chicago, Gottselig (Brydson, Palangio), 6:56; 3, Maroons, Northcott (Conacher), 15:50. Penalties: Marker.

BOSTON—DETROIT

First period—1, Boston, Duguid (Cook), 7:57. Penalties: None.

Second period—2, Detroit, H. Kilrea (Kelly, W. Kilrea), 1:27. Penalties: None.

Third period—3, Detroit, W. Kilrea, 4:48. Penalties: None.

CANADIENS-AMERICANS

First period—1, Americans, Stewart (Chapman, Schriner), 6:35; 2, Americans, Chapman (Stewart, Anderson), 8:16; 3, Canadiens, Blake (Haynes, Lorrain), 14:14. Penalties: Blake, Stewart, McGill.

Second period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Murray.

Third period—4, Canadiens, McGill, 7:08. Penalties: Brown.

Overtime period—5, Canadiens, Blake (Brown), 2:58. Penalties: None.

Toronto Man Owns Century Golf Ball

Golf history goes back centuries as does the history of the implements used in the royal and ancient game, or mental torture, as it is sometimes called, and William Munro Forbes of Toronto, has among his prized possessions one of the early relics of the game. It is a golf ball of the type used about 100 years ago and has been a family possession of more than eighty years. Although the ball compares almost exactly in size with those in use today it is much lighter in weight and by no means as durable. It is stuffed with feathers, bound together with a thin layer of elastic, and has an outer cover of goat-skin. The cover is in three sections with seams similar to a baseball, and, according to Forbes, this type of ball was manufactured in Holland. The relic was originally used by Munro Forbes, grandfather of the present owner, on the Bruntsfield Links at Edinburgh. Forbes was offered a pound for the relic some years ago in the Old Country, but would not part with it now for any price. Forbes is shown holding the relic, a collection of which, which may be compared with the present day ball, also shown.

RUMBERG IN MAT VICTORY

Spokane Wrestler Takes the Main Event From "King Kong Cox"

A little too much hair pulling and a little too much all-round rough work last "King Kong" Cox, 225-pound wrestler from Los Angeles, Calif., the match to Hal Rumberg, blond mat-man from Spokane, in the main event at the weekly show at the Tiliuim gym Saturday evening. Rumberg won on a foul and a fall.

In the semi-main event, Sailor Jack Arnold, 215 pounds, from Boston, and Don McElroy, 215 pounds, from Scotland, wrestled to a one-fall draw.

Bing Quon and Mohan Singh grappled to a one-fall draw in the preliminary, while Pat McGregor lost to Jack Frost, when the latter took a one-fall victory in the opener.

Lawson Little Wins San Francisco Golf

Defeats Neil Christian, Yakima, on Twentieth Hole in Keenly-fought Match Play Final; Washington Player Gives Thrilling Exhibition

Associated Press
San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Lawson Little, king of amateur golf until his abdication in favor of professionalism last April, put $1,000 and a tournament championship into his pocket today as convincing proof he still is a master at match play competition.

It took a twenty-hole battle in the final round of the seventy-two-hole San Francisco match play open to determine the supremacy of the heavy hitting, husky son of a United States army officer, but he fought it out with the courage of a real champion.

Little edged out Neil Christian, squatty veteran of the fairway clan from Yakima, Wash., in the second extra hole after the latter had staged a thrilling comeback to square the match on the eighteenth green.

For three rounds of the match play, the British and American amateur champion of 1934 and 1935 played sub-par, unbeatable golf. He breezed into the finals in easy fashion, winner over such oldsters as Orville White, 5 and 4; Jimmy Hines, 3 and 2; and Horton Smith, 6 and 4.

In the final he punched out a three up lead at the ninth and virtually tucked the title away at the fourteenth—four up and four to go.

WENT TO PIECES

Just when it appeared Little was ready to claim his second tournament—the bottom fell out of his bag of golfing shots.

He three-putted the last four holes of the round, taking five shots over par. He missed one putt of slightly over a foot. Christian, meanwhile, was a stroke better each time, to even the match.

They halved the first extra hole in par fours, and on the twentieth Little had the choice of playing his second shot safe or taking the big game of shooting over a cluster of trees. He took the latter course. The ball sailed to the green. He was down in two putts for a birdie four on the 500-yard test.

Christian chose the more cautious method, but his par five was not good enough.

WELL UNDER PAR

Little finished the tournament sixteen strokes under par for 100 holes, including thirty-six holes of qualifying. Christian was four under par for 108 holes played.

In defeating Smith in the semifinals, Little finished seven under par for the round. Christian advanced with a semi-final win over Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., in a six-under-par clip.

As runner-up Christian won $500. Losing semi-finalists, Smith and Picard took $250, with $150 going to second round losers, Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N.Y.; Byron Nelson, Ridgewood, N.J.; Leonard Dodson, and Sam Parks Jr., Pittsburgh.

Thomson won $25 as medalist and $117 as a first round loser. Other defeated first round players, winning $117, were: Charles Congdon, Tacoma, Wash.; Ed Hudley, Philadelphia; Sam Sneed, West Sulphur Springs, W.V.

Airplane Hunt Not Successful

Canadian Press
Glasgow, Mont., Feb. 1.—Malcolm
Mitchell, twenty-three, and James Bridwell, twenty-nine, went coyote hunting in an airplane. Sighting one of the animals in the snow below, Bridwell stalled the plane so Mitchell could draw a bead. The plane crashed.
Mitchell suffered fractures of both arms and Bridwell fractures of one arm and one ankle. The coyote got away.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The City Fire Department yesterday attended calls to grass fires at Oak Bay, and Clover Point.

On Wednesday evening the regular meeting of the Tillamook C.C.F. Club will be held at Alex's Hall, Burnside Road, at 8 o'clock.

Six more cases of influenza were reported to the city health department this morning, raising the total recorded so far to thirty-three.

The meeting of the Sir James Douglas Parent-Teacher Association, scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been cancelled due to inclement weather conditions.

Officials of the city engineer's department continued today to clear snow from crossings in the downtown area and to sand c-ners where such action helped pedestrians.

When he slipped on the icy surface of the sidewalk, Peter Kenny, 620 Bay Street, fell and broke his leg shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, according to a city police report.

He was attended at the Jubilee Hospital
by Dr. A. D. Bechtel.

The Victoria Little Theatre Association will hold an auditions of the play
modern type, with selective flotation.
Work will start with the treating of
large dumps of second-class ore produced over thirty years ago at a time
when there was no effective process
known for separating lead from zinc in such ores.

The flotation process has now made this separation possible at a profit.
It is expected the new mill will be in operation by the beginning of May, said Mr. Atwater this morning. During the summer, veins known to exist in the property will be studied with the object of reopening the mine if the preliminary work is found satisfactory.

Mr. Atwater will leave for New York shortly. He expects to return here before the end of March and may make his headquarters here.

DRUG APPEAL IS DISMISSED

Trial Court Judgment Sustained by Court Here in Mike Punak Case

The appeal of Mike Punak, sentenced to seven years, five lashes and $500 fine, or an additional six months in default of payment, on a narcotic conviction at the last Vancouver Assizes, was dismissed by the British Columbia Court of Appeal in a judgment handed down today.

The court was unanimous in sustaining the judgment of the trial judge.

An application for extension of time for an appeal on sentence in the case of Richard Moland and Fred Grange, alleged leaders of a riot in Hamilton, Ont., in 1929, was granted by the court.

Gordon Wismer, K.C., made application on behalf of Gordon Grant.
The two prisoners lost their appeal from conviction, last week when Mr.
Grant failed to appear before the court.

COUGH NOT IN HONORS LIST

Canadian Press
London, Feb. 1.—Absence of General Sir Hubert Gough's name from the defunct New Year's honours list of the King created newspaper comment today.

Gen. Gough's handling of the Fifth Army's retreat before the great German offensive in France in the spring of 1918 which at the time cost him his command, of late has been vindicated, and in many quarters the inclusion of his name in the honours list had been expected. One suggestion pressed is that Sir Hubert be appointed a field marshal when the first vacancy occurs.

The promotion of Lord Greenwood from baron to viscount in the ranks of the peerage drew criticism from The London News-Chronicle. "The conferment on Lord Greenwood of Black and Tan fame of the one and only viscountcy seems scarcely calculated to smooth the negotiations in progress for an Irish settlement," the paper declared.

Lord Greenwood, the former Sir
Hamor Greenwood, was born at Whitby, Ontario, and was the last Chief Secretary for Ireland.

The Manchester Guardian thought the honours list was sparing in recognition of eminence in the arts, literature and the learned professions, and of the claim of women to distinction.

SCHOOL BUDGET AT LADYSMITH HIGHER

Ladysmith, Feb. 1.—Preliminary estimates, introduced at Friday's meeting of the school board here forecast an expenditure of $25,357 for 1937.

An income from fees and grants at $16,613.30 is estimated, leaving a prospective balance of $8,743.70 to be raised by local taxation.

This is an increase over the figures for last year. Compared with January of 1936, there is a registered increase of 115 pupils at the school.

WILL REVIVE LARDEAU AREA

Once Rich Mining District of British Columbia May Be Active Again

Deserted since the beginning of this century, the Lardeau district of British Columbia, east of Revelstoke, may shortly come into its own again as a rich mining area, according to R. M. Atwater Jr., copartnering mining engineer of New York City, who is at the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Atwater was in Victoria last in 1897, on his way to Australia. He returned yesterday to transact business with the provincial Department of Mines.

He represents a group of New York capitalists interested in properties in the Lardeau district who have organized the Silver Cup Mining and Milling Company, a private venture on which no stock will be issued. "The name is a revival of one well known in the interior of British Columbia fifty years ago."

The group is at present engaged in erecting a fifty-ton mill of the most modern type, with selective flotation.
Work will start with the treating of
large dumps of second-class ore produced over thirty years ago at a time
when there was no effective process
known for separating lead from zinc

RICHARD DENISON

After a long illness, the death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital last night of Richard Denison, marine engineer with the Island Tug and Barge Co. Mr. Denison was for many years a resident of Vancouver and was an old Yukoner, having been an engineer with boats plying under the White Pass, and Yukon Railway Co. nearly forty years ago. He was well known among seafaring men on the coast.
He is survived by his widow, residing at the Alkazar Mansions. Funeral services will be held at Thomson's Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

EDITH COX

There passed away yesterday afternoon, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Edith

CONFIDENCE GAME CHARGE

Jack Manning Accused of Victimizing Visitor of $600

Alleged to have been a member of a confidence ring that victimized John Soderstrom, retired prairie farmer, of $600, Jack Manning was arraigned before Magistrate Henry Hall in the City Police Court this morning and charged with conspiracy to defraud.

Ball was set at $2,500 in two sur-ties.

According to a statement from C.
L. Harrison, prosecutor, the fraud was effected by the well-known prairie trick.

The prosecution alleges that Mr.
Soderstrom was "let in" on "good things" at the races by the accused after Mr. Soderstrom had found and returned a wallet supposedly owned by the accused in which there were valuable papers.

A man named Williams was also named in the information as being one with whom the accused conspired.

The accused was arrested in Vancouver over the week-end.

Jules Fortin Is Due Tomorrow

Jules Fortin, eastern Canada bondholders representative, is due to arrive tomorrow morning and is expected to proceed to the City Hall immediately to discuss the proposals of his principals with Mayor McGavin and the finance committee.

It was understood a meeting of the council would be called as soon as convenient after his arrival, probably on Wednesday.

Although no definite statement was made at the City Hall, there was much speculation over the terms Mr. Fortin would submit to the city on the debt
re-adjustment issue.

At the home of his daughter, Mrs.
W. H. Creech, Seattle, there passed away last week Albert J. Briggs, ninety-seven years of age, and a former resident of Victoria.

Born in Kingston, Ont., in 1839, the late Mr. Briggs came to Victoria in 1882. He was employed with the Canadian Pacific Railway for twenty-four years. He then joined the Department of Lands, Parliament Buildings, where he worked for sixteen years, following which he retired. For the last twelve years he had resided in Seattle.

He is survived by his daughter and two grandchildren, William and Donald Creech.

Ox-cart Pioneer
Passes Away Here

With the death of Mrs. Phoebe Jane Abbey, aged eighty-two, wife of A.
T. Abbey, realtor, here yesterday at 1030 Terrace Avenue, western Canada lost one of its ox-cart pioneers. Mrs.
Abbey was born in Lincolnshire, England, in 1855, came to Canada fifty-five years ago with her husband. They traveled by ox-cart from Winnipeg to Old Assiniboia in search of a homesite but after six months returned to England.

Returning after a few months Mr.
and Mrs. Abbey settled in Regina where both were prominent for many years in church work. In 1901 Mr. and Mrs. Abbey came to Victoria, residing here since 1901.

Besides her husband Mrs. Abbey is survived by three daughters, Mrs. H.
R. Brown and Mrs. S. Clegg of Victoria and Mrs. J. V. Clegg, of Oliver, B.C.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from the residence, 1030 Terrace Avenue, at 2:45 o'clock, proceeding to St. Mary's Church for services at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Colwood Burial Park.

morning of Margaret Jean, widow of Police-sergt. R. H. Walker, aged seventy-five years. Mrs. Walker was born in Kincardine, Ont., and had been a resident of this city for fifty-two years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. L. Reid, Vancouver, and Mrs. D. McEwen, New West-minister, two brothers, H. H. Mac-Kenzie and D. E. MacKenzie, two sons, D. I. Walker, Jordan River, and R. W. Walker, Victoria; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

CECIL M. BRYANT

Yesterday there passed away at the residence at Beaver Point Road, Salt Spring Island, Cecil Moxon Bryant, aged sixty-five years. Born in London he had been a resident in Canada since 1897 and was a mining engineer by profession. He is survived by a cousin, Col. J. Bryant of Salt Spring Island. Funeral services will be conducted in St. Mary's Church, Victoria, tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. H. Pop-ham will officiate and the remains will be laid to rest in the church cemetery. Sands Mortuary Ltd. are in charge of arrangements.

ANNIE DIEHL WOOD

There passed away at an early hour
this morning at her residence, 328
Michigan Street, Annie Diehl Wood, widow of Judge C. E. D. Wood, of Weyburn, Sask. Mrs. Wood, who was seventy-eight years of age, was born at Stangard, Quebec, and was one of the original settlers of Macleod, Alberta, coming from Quebec via Chicago, Fort Benton, Montana, and then by covered wagon to Macleod. She had been a resident of this city for the past six months and leaves one brother and one sister. The remains are resting at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements which will be announced later.

New Styles In Pianos For 1937

In over thirty years there has been no appreciable change in pianoforte styles... until this year the vertical grand has been introduced and given an enthusiastic reception. Fletcher Bros now present the four leading makes of this new style in piano architecture.
Each has its points of difference, each a different appeal
... yet all four are characteristic of the new trend in piano design. We invite you to see them:

Up-island Town

Gets Below Zero

With the news that one place on Vancouver Island, usually noted for its mild climate, had recorded below-zero weather last week, W. E. A. Eland, agency secretary of the Monarch Life from the Winnipeg head office, and George Tyson, island manager, returned to Victoria yesterday from Courtenay, Port Alberni and away points.

The cold place was Headquarter, where last Thursday night the temperature dropped to three degrees below, they said on their arrival at the Empress Hotel. Headquarters is known as the coldest spot on the island, this being accounted for by the fact that it is away from the water.

Up-island centres are pretty much setting the prosperity pace for western Canada, Mr. Eland said, with conditions especially good in Courtenay and Port Alberni.

Mr. Eland will spend this week in Vancouver, but will return to Victoria at the first of the next week.

FLIGHT DELAYED

NO RETREAT ON DEBT CUT ACT

Aberhart Says He May Appeal if It Is Declared Ultra Vires

Canadian Press

Calgary, Feb. 1.—Possibility of his government appealing the decision if the courts find the Alberta Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act ultra vires was voiced here yesterday by Premier Aberhart.

In an address to the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute, he said, "If it is declared ultra vires we may appeal the decision. And until it is finally settled, the act holds good."

Passed by the Legislature a year ago, the act wipes out interest on private debts, as from July 1, 1932, contracted prior to that date. Interest paid since that date is to be applied to principal which, under the act, would be paid off in ten annual instalments, without interest.

On debts contracted after July 1, 1932, the act stipulates a maximum interest rate of 5 per cent can be charged.

CONSIDERING DECISION

After hearing argument on a series of six test cases to upset the act, Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing in the Alberta Supreme Court recently reserved his decision. No indication was given as to when the judgment would be brought down.

NOT DEPENDENT ON

Referring to the departure from Edmonton last Monday of John Hargrave, British Social Credit party leader who for a time had acted as technical adviser to the Alberta government, Mr. Aberhart said:

"I was pleased to receive a cablegram from the London secretariat of the United Kingdom Social Credit Party advising me to give no heed to Hargrave's declaration of failure for he could not be depended upon."

Before his departure, Mr. Hargrave, in a statement, said he no longer found himself able to co-operate with the Alberta cabinet. "The Social Credit government of Alberta is not publicly committed to the principles of Social Credit," he said.

A series of questions published by a Calgary newspaper Saturday, which Mr. Aberhart was asked to answer during his Sunday address, brought criticism from the Premier. The questions related to payment of dividends and scrip.

"They are entirely outside this whole business," said the Premier. "There is a question that should be asked: 'When do you expect to pass the order-in-council licensing the press?'"

Magda Lupescu

Wealthy Woman

Associated Press

Vienna, Feb. 1.—Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol of Rumania, is considered one of the richest persons in that country.

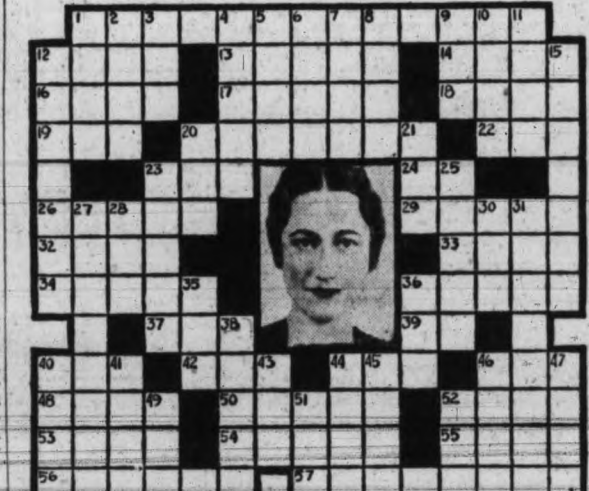

Rumania's plump, red-haired "uncrowned queen," nearly forty, is regarded as one of the most retiring, most secretive and most powerful women in the world.

And, reports from circles close to the Rumanian court add, she is one of the shrewdest capitalists in Bucharest.

Her stock is widely and cleverly held. She reputedly owns considerable interest in Bucharest banks and newspapers and in a foreign motor company.

Three banks, with 2,600 branches, control 70 per cent of the Canadian banking resources. Another bank with its branches controls 27 per cent.

At the Columbia

Donald Woods, who plays in his first picture as the leading man opposite Jean Muir in the Warner Bros. picture, "As the Earth Turns," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, has made a careful study of story trends. He believes that stories and dramas with simple, wholesome, genuinely human qualities, such as the plot of "As the Earth Turns," are sure of a warm reception from the theatre-going public, and particularly this season.

Jean Muir has the role of a farmer's daughter in this story of North American life.

Plays Opposite Virginia Bruce in "The Murder Man"; Opens Today

Spencer Tracy's most recent picture, "The Murder Man," in which he stars with lovely Virginia Bruce, opened at the Plaza Theatre today. Although he is noted for powerful screen characterizations, Tracy never has had a more vivid role than in this picture. He plays a star reporter of a New York newspaper and is dubbed "The Murder Man" because of his success in solving mysterious crimes. Becoming involved in a murder case, Tracy aids the police in finding the true criminal, with disastrous results to himself. With the stars is a strong cast headed by Lionel Atwill, Harvey Stephens and Robert Barrat.

The second feature is G. B.'s brilliant drama, "Rhodes," starring Walter Huston in what is termed his finest dramatic role.

"Tugboat Princess"

To Open Tomorrow

"Tugboat Princess," a sentimental comedy-drama of a hardbitten old sea captain and a waterfront waif, will provide the week's screen bill of fare at the Dominion Theatre starting tomorrow. Walter C. Kelly, the Virginia Judge, and Edith Fellows, twelve-year-old star of "She Married Her Boss," appear in the important lead roles with Valerie Hobson, Lester Matthews, Clyde Cook and Reginald Hincks included in the imposing cast of supporting players.

"Tugboat Princess" is the story of a little orphan girl, Edith Fellows, who is adopted by a soft-hearted old sea captain, Walter C. Kelly, and brought to live on his tugboat when her parents are drowned at sea.

Zane Grey's "End of the Trail," starring Jack Holt, is the second feature.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, is designing to Tyronne Power the leading male role in "Loyds of London," screen triumph now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, gave that young man one of the most coveted characterizations of the year.

The opportunity of overnight stardom was granted the young player as a result of his outstanding performance in two previous Twentieth Century-Fox pictures.

Previous to his movie experience Tyronne received the indispensable training of acting before the footlights in theatres throughout the country. A romantically good-looking young man, just over six feet tall and weighing 155 pounds, he has brown eyes, brown hair, an infectious smile and a vital, boyish personality that insure his popularity as a romantic favorite.

Almost two billion dollars' worth of food is imported by England annually.
